"I have forgiven him and my daughter with all my heart," he said. "The boy is a prince and has proved his mettle." His nunsequent statement indicated that the souple may continue to "live happury ever afterward," but in more comfort if not in downright maury.

"I had the young rascals on at Lynnewcood Half, my neuse at Emine Park, over Christman, Mr. Widener continued, with a brood smile of parental pride and satisfaction. "And old Timers From Handlers to Manafter we had partulen or the poliday fowf I falked turkey to them and everything is fixed up fine now.

"Yes, it is true, I held out amonet them pretty long. Hut I wanted to rind out what sort of stuff young Carter was made of."

Mr Widener then tolo the reporter that he had been informed by the management of the American Car and Formary Company at Berwick, Pa-, that his son-in-law ind made good. Mr. Leidy has been working in the ateel plant for $2.50 a day ever some he married Mas Widener.

"His boss told me the young reliow was doing fine," said Mr. Widener, "and that he did not snirk from the hardest jobs, and in the mean time I also found out that PHI was keeping the little house, doing her own works and marketine, bust as a regular little.

And here comes another part of the rairy story. Cinderella is Cinderella so longer. The magic wand of the millionaire changed the pumpkin late a motor car and the cottage, well, not exactly into a patace, but into a very comfortable three-story bouse.

"You know," said Mr. Widener, and re was a shrewd twinkle in his s. "you must not get the impres-ry that Fin is scrubbing floors. I said dislike that very much.

"No, they are pretty comfortable new. I fixed them up a nice little place in Berwick. She atili does her own marketing, but I got her a little runabout to do it in. Looks better. And I gave them a little limousine to go to church in on Sunday. The neighbors like that petter. And—er— I got her a cook to fix up the stuff she buys in the market. And—er—sr—I got her a little maid to do some of the rough housework.

"Yes, yes," he added, musingly, "they are fixed pretty comfortably now."

Among first aids to a happy and prosperous New Year there is always The World Almanac. This standard reference book, fresh from the presses and bearing the date 1921, is now available to purchasers. A peep into the index shows that it comes to the public bringing, according to its annual custom, not only the election returns, crop reports, business figures, sporting records and other statements and statistics covering the transactions of the year just past but the abundance of fresh facts and features necessary to keeping up with a world that moves.

For the benefit of our readers who are not familiar with the vast scope of the contents of the 1921 World Almanac portions of the general index of the book will be published from time to time. The first instalment follows:
